

TWO GIRL CHUMS, ONE SOON TO WED, PERISH IN FIRE

Thrilling Rescues By Citizens
Attend Spectacular Blaze
in Apartment House.

Though it was thought by the police that seven persons had perished in a fire in the four-story apartment house at Beekman avenue and Clinton street, North Tarrytown, early to-day, investigation among the scattered members of the eighteen families who were burned out reduced the number of dead to two. These were Sarah Lichtenstein, nineteen years old, and Nellie Greenberg, seventeen years old.

Both girls, who were chums, were burned almost beyond recognition and their bodies were not recovered until hours after the fire had been extinguished.

Isidore Messing, an infant, was thrown from a second story window and his skull was fractured by the fall. His mother, Mrs. A. Messing, sustained a broken leg. Mrs. A. Friedman suffered internal injuries.

The fire was discovered in a cellar underneath a restaurant which occupied part of the ground floor of the building, and it spread so rapidly that it cut off the escape of many of the occupants.

Several thrilling rescues were made by citizens and firemen.

Mrs. Lichtenstein, one of the girls who was burned to death, was to have been married soon, and her friend, Miss Greenberg, had come from New York to attend the engagement party.

IRONWORKER'S MUSCLE DIDN'T SAVE HIM FROM SIX-FOOT WIFE, HE SAYS

But Court Agrees With Mrs.
Baron That Sammy Could Take Care of Himself.

Sammy Baron, an ironworker, just the wee bit of an inch taller than five feet, appeared before Magistrate Breen in the Tombs Police Court to-day in a frock coat and tan spats, with his waxed, mustache twisted up to his ears, in the undignified role of complainant against his wife Esther, who towers a foot above him, and asked that the strong arm of the law be enlisted to protect him against her mighty right one.

Sammy says that Esther, with disheartening regularity, administers scientific and thorough punishment upon his poor, weak little frame.

Mrs. Baron sneered audibly as her husband told the court his graphic story, while the eight little Barons, all standing in a row, nodded vehemently and in unison every time their mamma put one over on father, when she contradicted his story.

The particular beating which caused "Sammy" as he was affectionately called by his spouse in court to-day, to rush to the protection of the law was handed to him last night. He had come home blithe and happy, he said, when he was greeted with a right jolt to the jaw from his indignant wife, who accused him of attempting to shanghai his eldest son Morris back to Germany because he had defended her against him. The fight occurred at No. 170 Henry street, where the Barons have lived for five years since their arrival in this country from Germany.

Mrs. Blanche Reine, the oldest and married daughter of Mrs. Baron, acted as interpreter. When her father completed his tale, Mrs. Baron with the aid of her daughter, told the court that Sammy, ever since his sojourn in New York, had been negligent in support of his family and that he although small in frame, had muscles that were as swift and tireless as steel springs, and had often beaten her.

On one occasion, she testified, she had been rescued by Morris, who was at present being detained on Ellis island. Sammy, she told Magistrate Breen, was the cause for his presence there, as he was attempting to have him deported for defending his mother.

Magistrate Breen dismissed the complaint and ordered a new complaint for disorderly conduct made against Baron.

COURT COMPELS LAWYER TO RETURN $100 FEE.

Client Wanted to Plead Guilty to Having Revolver, but Attorney Wouldn't Let Him.

Otto A. Samuels, a lawyer of No. 99 Nassau street, after a serious talk with Judge Swann, in Part I. General Sessions, this morning wrote out a check for $100 in favor of John Romanyak, charged with a violation of the Sullivan law, whom Samuels had been defending.

Romanyak, in pleading guilty, said that he had been examining his revolver on the roof of the building in which he lives, at No. 237 East Twelfth street, when a policeman arrested him. That was on Sept. 8, and since then he has been in the Tombs. He told the judge that he wanted to plead guilty and explain the circumstances, but had been deterred by Samuels, to whom he had paid $100 to defend him.

The prisoner said he had never carried the revolver out of his home. Judge Swann talked the case over with the lawyer, supervised the payment of the $100 to Romanyak and then suspended sentence on the prisoner.

TAFT AN ANTIQUARIAN.

Society Elects Him a Member at Centennial Celebration.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 16.—President Taft and the British Ambassador, James Bryce, were among those who today joined in the observance of the one-hundredth anniversary of the American Antiquarian Society, one of the oldest organizations of its kind in this country. An address by President Taft at a banquet to-night was expected to be a feature of the celebration.

Historical authorities of this and a number of foreign countries attended the meetings. An address reviewing the work of the society was delivered at the opening session by ex-Congressman Charles G. Washburn. Speakers at a meeting later in the day included United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Ambassador Bryce and ex-Gov. Samuel W. Pennypacker of Pennsylvania. President Taft was elected a member of the society at the business session.

His Landlady's Advice Probably Saved His Life.

I feel that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root saved my life. I inherited weak kidneys. The discharge was so frequent and painful that I would have to stay in bed to obtain temporary relief. I consulted good physicians, but the results were disappointing. My landlady advised me to try Swamp-Root as the last resort, which I did and I was quickly relieved.

I continued taking Swamp-Root and my weight has increased fifty pounds. My health is of the best and I have told many others about Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and have done a lot of good in this way. Your wonderful medicine is of great value to mankind.

Yours very truly,
J. H. BRUXBY.

The above statement made before me I declare to be true in every detail.

MACY'S SEWING MACHINES

Practical and durable machines at prices 1½ less than you are charged elsewhere on the Deferred Payment Plan, Club Plan or Installment Plan.

In addition to this great saving, Macy's Sewing Machines are not only provided free with a full set of the newest attachments—(consisting of a ruffler, a binder, a shirring blade, a tucker and adjustable hemmers)—but every machine listed below is also fitted free with the new Automatic Needlethreader.

This remarkable little invention saves time, temper, headaches and eye strain by threading the needle for you in an instant automatically. You need not even look at it—it acts so rapidly, smoothly and surely. It is attached or detached in a moment—does not interfere with your material or with any other attachment—is made of polished nickel steel to last as long as the machine itself. Bought with these Macy Sewing Machines it costs you nothing; bought separately it costs $1.00.

Macy Sewing Machines range in price from $14.89 to $29.89, and are so diversified in style, size and finish that we cannot describe them all in detail.

Here, however, we illustrate and describe one of the most used models—that at $19.89, costing elsewhere $24.00 to $28.00.

This is the Macy "Red Star" Sewing Machine, with automatic drop head, highly polished oak case, ball bearings and four side drawers.

The working parts are well ground and hardened, the needle is self-setting (which will not let you put in the needle any way but right) and the shuttle self-threading. The head is finished with three coats of black enamel, hand rubbed and hand polished and baked on to make it permanent. Over the enamel is a double coat of hardest glossy translucent varnish.

The stitch regulator will make any desired number of stitches from 7 to 24 to the inch, allowing you to handle fabrics of every degree of thinness, thickness or weight. By the aid of a gear release the labor saving bobbins may be used. This machine is a lock stitch, making the material sewn look alike on both sides and preventing raveling or breaking of the thread.

The tension is so delicately adjusted, yet so strong and durable, that it regulates automatically, preventing bending and breaking of needle, and assuring even and regular stitching, without ever causing trouble or need for repair. The machine has a large, high arm, permitting ample room for sewing large pieces.

Here are other Macy Sewing Machines, some higher, some lower in price, but all as dependable, as well designed and as well fitted for general use as the one we have described.
